

Pizza Sales Analytics Report

AI-Generated Business Insights

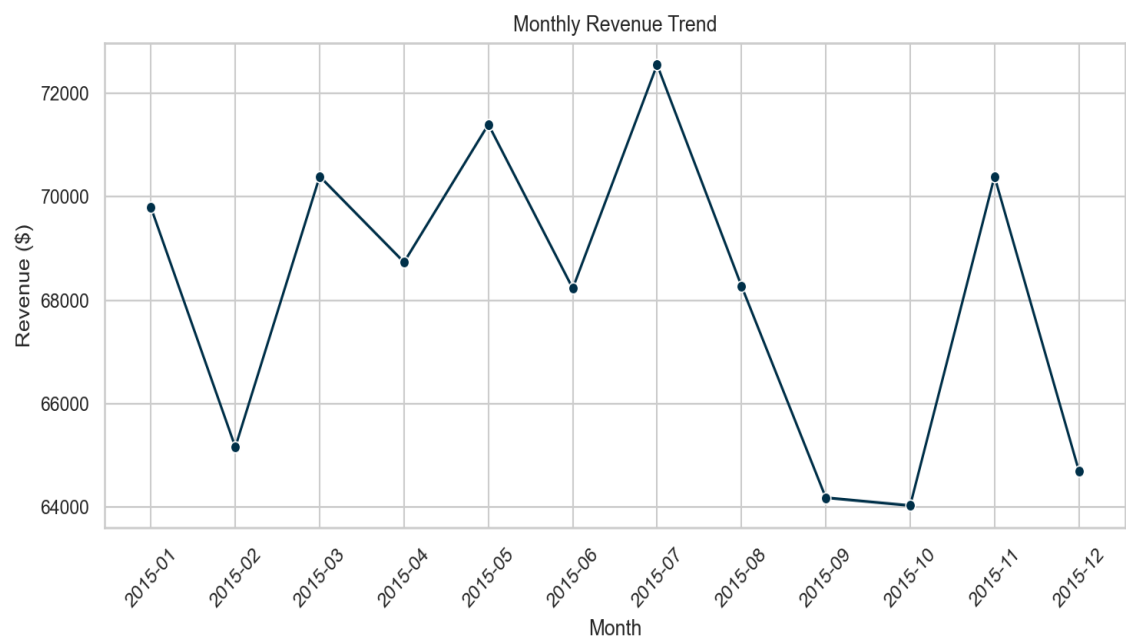

Top Pizzas by Revenue

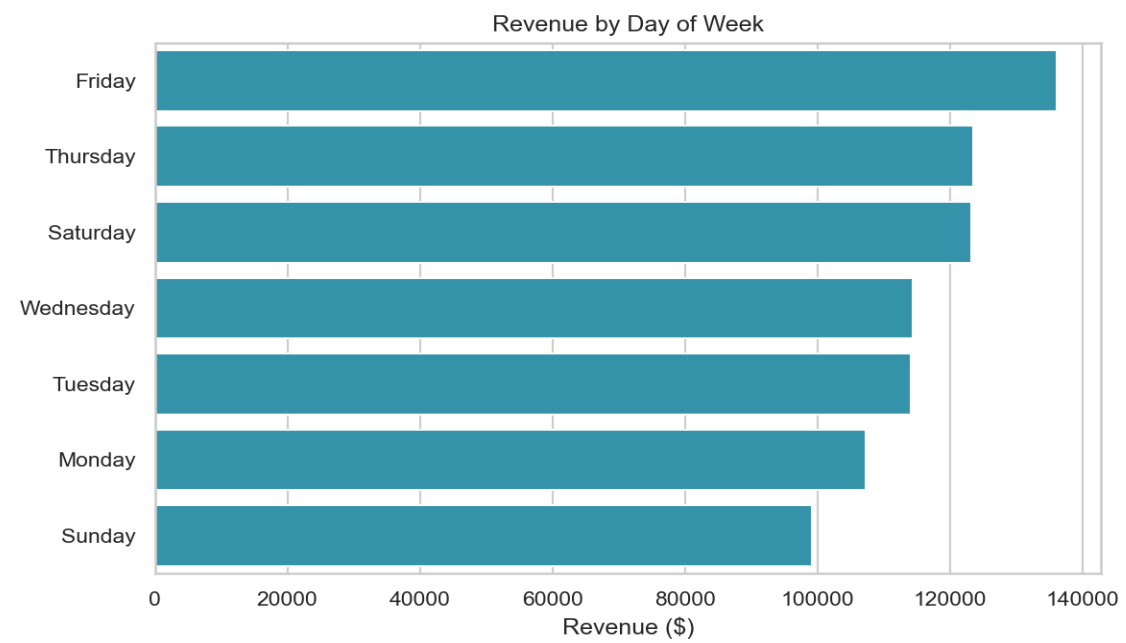

Pizzas Sold by Category

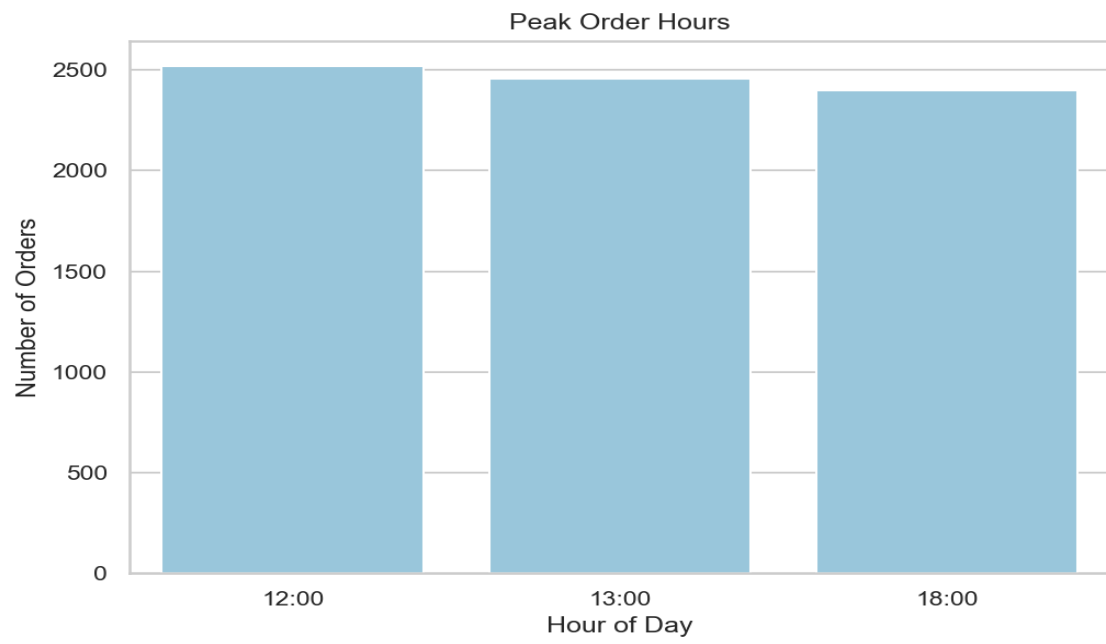

Monthly Revenue Trend

Revenue by Day of Week

Peak Order Hours

Full Written Report

Executive Summary

The pizza restaurant has generated a total revenue of $817,860.05 from 21,350 orders, with an average order value of $38.31. The revenue trend shows a peak month in July with $72,557.9 in revenue. The overall performance indicates a strong demand for pizzas, with the top 5 pizzas contributing significantly to the total revenue. The restaurant's growth trend is generally positive, with a highest growth month in November 2015, which saw a 9.95% growth in revenue.

Revenue & Growth Insights

- The highest growth month was November 2015, with a revenue of $70,395.35 and a growth percentage of 9.95%.
- The biggest decline month was December 2015, with a revenue of $64,701.15 and a decline percentage of -8.09%.
- The total revenue for the year is $817,860.05, with a cumulative revenue record of 358 entries.
- The revenue percentage by category shows that the Classic category contributes 26.91% to the total revenue, followed by the Supreme category at 25.46%.

Product Performance Insights

- The top 5 pizzas are The Classic Deluxe Pizza, The Barbecue Chicken Pizza, The Hawaiian Pizza, The Pepperoni Pizza, and The Thai Chicken Pizza, with total quantities of 2,453, 2,432, 2,422, 2,418, and 2,371 respectively.
- The worst 5 pizzas are The Brie Carre Pizza, The Mediterranean Pizza, The Calabrese Pizza, The Spinach Supreme Pizza, and The Soppressata Pizza, with total quantities of 490, 934, 937, 950, and 961 respectively.
- The most common pizza size is L, with an order count of 18,526, followed by M with an order count of 15,385.
- The revenue by size shows that the L size generates 45.89% of the total revenue, followed by the M size at 30.49%.

Customer Behavior & Timing Insights

- The peak hours for orders are 12 pm, 1 pm, and 6 pm, with order counts of 2,520, 2,455, and 2,399 respectively.
- The weekday vs weekend pattern shows that weekdays generate $595,474.15 in revenue, while weekends generate $222,385.9 in revenue.
- The average order value is $38.31, with the weekday average order value at $38.25 and the weekend average order value at $38.46.
- The revenue by weekday shows that Friday is the highest revenue-generating day, with $136,073.9 in revenue.

Recommendations

- Increase the production of The Thai Chicken Pizza, The Barbecue Chicken Pizza, and The Classic Deluxe Pizza, as they are the top 3 revenue-generating pizzas, with revenues of $43,434.25, $42,768.0, and $38,180.5 respectively.
- Offer promotions and discounts on the L size pizzas, as they generate the highest revenue, with a revenue percentage of 45.89%.

- Improve the marketing and promotion of the restaurant during the weekend, as the revenue generated during this time is lower than weekdays, with $222,385.9 in revenue.
- Consider removing or revising the menu items for The Brie Carre Pizza, The Mediterranean Pizza, The Calabrese Pizza, The Spinach Supreme Pizza, and The Soppressata Pizza, as they are the worst 5 pizzas in terms of sales, with total quantities of 490, 934, 937, 950, and 961 respectively.
- Increase the staff and resources during the peak hours of 12 pm, 1 pm, and 6 pm, as these are the busiest times for the restaurant, with order counts of 2,520, 2,455, and 2,399 respectively.

Risks to Watch

- The decline in revenue in December 2015, with a decline percentage of -8.09%, may indicate a seasonal trend, and the restaurant should be prepared to manage this decline in future years.
- The underperformance of the XXL size pizzas, which generate only 0.12% of the total revenue, may indicate a lack of demand for this size, and the restaurant should consider revising or removing this option.
- The relatively low revenue generated on Sundays, with $99,203.5 in revenue, may indicate a need to increase marketing and promotion efforts on this day to attract more customers.